

January 2016

Dreaming up ideas, Creating fun projects and Sharing with you!

Happy New Year...

Another year begins and with it changes. I will soon be in search of another job that pays my bills, as the one that does now will be ending March 31, 2016. This will mean changes for the store as well.

I will have to adjust the hours once I find new employment. I do have something planned but time will tell.

These changes probably will take place April. If all goes well, I will be open most, if not all Saturdays, which will be a bonus in so many ways.

It may even mean I will get to have all day crops for those interested, with the first one being planned for May 14th, 2016. More details to follow

This is going to be a great year.
